Expect 'Off the Cuff' Speech From Incumbent Candidate

By JEFF HANSEN
Staff Writer

When Mayor Samuel Yorty speaks in the "Quad" Tuesday at 11 a.m. it will be "strictly off the cuff," said Ray Parker, the mayor's presonal press secretary.

As the elections will soon be upon us the mayor will "leave the topic open so that he will be able to take up current issues," said Elanor Kirkby, head the City-Wide News for the Yorty campaign.

Since Yorty will "cover the progress and problems of Los Angeles in his speech," said Parker, "It is likely that he will touch upon those problems that face the youth of today."

Discussion

Of primary interest to the Valley College student is the fact that he will "tell of the progress of the Youth Opportunities Board as it relates to the war on poverty," according to Miss Kirkby.

"Tangible plans" on how to ammeliorate the low employment that face the youth of today will be discussed. Other topics such as law enforcement will help to round out the mayor's plans in the Valley.

The Mayor's speech will last more than 40 minutes. If time allows there will be a question and answer period during which time Valley students may query into the affairs of state.

Background

Yorty, a member of the California Bar Association, has been interested in politics since 1933 when he was a sponsor of the Central Valley Water Project. Later he was elected to the California State Legislature and in 1950 he became a member of Congress from the 14th District in California. His career has, so far, reached its height in the office of the mayor to which he was elected in 1961.

This event will be sponsored by the Valley College Young Republicans.

In the future other candidates for office will be presented through the joint effort of the Young Republicans and the JFK Young Democrats.

'Stop the World' Opens Run Today

By RUTH TAMARIN
Fine Arts Editor

"It's a sellout," boasted Ernest Mauk, director of the musical opening tonight in the Little Theater.

Those lucky enough to attend one of the eight performances of "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off," will find themselves humming one of the catchy tunes featured.

It could be "Mumbo-Jumbo," a satire on politics; or "I Want to Get Rich," a song about a young man who wants to make a million dollars quick; perhaps "Family Feud," a tune in which a family sings angry retorts to one another's accusations; or "What Kind of Fool Am I?"

The curtain will go up at 8:30 p.m., March 18-20, and 25-27. Reservations are being handled at the Business Office. Students with I.D. cards will be admitted free. There is a $1 charge for the public.

Extra Performances

Because of the sell-out, the T.A. department decided to add two performances on April 2 and 3. Tickets are available those two nights. A few seats are still open the other nights.

Double casting for the two leads may induce some fans to attend more than one performance.

Opening tonight will be Jay Shapiro as Littlechap and Tanni Oman as Evie. Tomorrow eveing through Sunday night Wade Early and Miss Oman will play the two leads.

Wade Early and Miss Oman play next Thursday, and Shapiro and Miss Danam play Friday, March 26.

Miss Oman and Shapiro are scheduled for Saturday, March 27. Stars for April 2-3 performances have not yet been announced.

Dramatic costumes and makeup in this fantasy wipe out a sordid world and act as a release from reality. Supplementing this world of fantasy are the artistic lighting and stage setting. The present stage design is described by Dean Cusman, designer, as "one of the most ambitious sets that we've ever attempted."

Symbolism

Three circles on the stage and the billowing 63-foot tent backdrop, symbolically represent the three ring circus of life. Littlechap wanders from his own small circle of his private life, into the largest one where he is transformed as just another person in a large world. In the medium sized circle, he takes his place as a family man.

Choreographer Marilyn Wetiz directs the dances of the chorus. Dan Robinson, a student at Valley College and professional dancer, assists Miss Wetiz on special effects.

"Stop the World" is the story of man from youth to death, his productivity, faults and virtues. The role is played in white masks as authors Leslie Bricusse and Anthony Newley feel that Littlechap could be any color or race, as man is the same everywhere.

Jackie Kornblatt and Barbara Smith are cast as the two daughters. The chorus leader is Marianne Whitley. The chorus consists of Susan Chickillo, Jo Dias, Clare Bay, Heather Woodruff, Toria Gee and Eddie Benjamin. Robert Alexander is technical director.

One member of the chorus, Heather Woodruff, is competing in the beauty contest finals of "Miss Los Angeles County."

Shapiro will be remembered as playing the male leads in the "Little Hut" and "Medea." Early performed in "The Little Tailor," a show for children which ran during the Christmas holidays. Both students are interested in becoming professional actors.

Miss Danam portrayed the lead in "Good News," and was in "Medea." Miss Oman who is new at Valley College, has been active in several productions before coming to the campus.

Work Day Planned

Thirty Valley business students will attend the Sixth Annual Insurance Career Day Tuesday in downtown Los Angeles. The event, sponsored by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, is designed to acquaint students with opportunities in the insurance industry.

The students will join approximately 300 others from Los Angeles junior college at Union Oil Auditorium at 8:30 a.m. where they will be given a brief orientation on the planned activities of the day. A short film will also be presented.

They will then leave in groups to various insurance offices in the Los Angeles area for tours to learn exactly how the offices are operated.

Each group of students will be able to ask questions and obtain answers from the department heads, managers, and owners of the office.

Luncheon will be served by the company to which the students are assigned and then they will return to Union Oil Auditorium for departure back to the college at 1:30 p.m.

Orientation Film Scheduled Today

"Which Campus?" the UCLA orientation film, will be shown today at 11 a.m. in C100.

The film will be for prospective University of California students at Valley who will receive help in deciding which location to go to.

"To meet the individual needs of the student will be the purpose of the film, which is distributed by the University of California. Students thinking about attending the statewide school should attend," said Lauren Rhoades, Valley College counselor.

It will show scenes of all nine campuses located at Berkeley, UCLA, Davis, Riverside, Santa Barbara, San Diego, Santa Cruz, La Jolla, and San Luis Obispo. It will include interviews with the faculty and other personnel of each one.

College News Briefs

Letters Urge Action

In a 41-word telegram to the President of the United States last week, 107 members of the Los Angeles Valley College Faculty Association protested the "shameful events in Selma, Alabama," and "urged you (the President) to do everything in your power to protect American citizens in the exercise of their rights."

USC Dean Speaks Monday

Dr. William C. Himstreet, associate dean of the School of Business at USC, will speak to interested students March 22, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Administration building lobby. Himstreet will speak to all students about USC transfer with no appointments necessary.

Fine Arts on Display

A one man ceramics show by Lance Gravett, Valley College student, is currently on display in the showcases of the Fine Arts Building. The ceramic pieces range from sculpture, bottles, and jars to functional pots. The show will continue until March 29, when Nike Hogan, another Valley student, will introduce his ceramic art.

Conference Deadline Nears

Students interested in attending the Red Cross Student Conference in Lancaster April 2, 3, 4, may fill out applications in B24 until Tuesday, March 23. Those chosen will receive room and board "scholarships" to pay all expenses at the conference. William Lewis, dean of student activities, can supply additional information.

Rights Club Petition Rejected by Council

Valley College's IOC (Inter-Organization Council) at their last Tuesday's meeting rejected the Student Civil Rights Organization's bid to become a recognized club on campus.

By a vote of 16-17-4, the body denied the admission petition. SCRO first came before the IOC for a vote two weeks ago, March 9, when they were approved by a 20-14-2 count. The report of the body was then submitted to the Executive Council, who has final say on club admittance.

The Council voted to return the club to the IOC for a re-vote due to complaints by many of the organizations who felt that "it was not clear to them what they were voting on," stated Larry Bohanan, Associated Student president.

A discrepency in voting was the main cause for the re-vote, according to Colleen Ferguson, chairman of the IOC. "The Council should be sure before it takes a final vote," said Miss Ferguson. "The Council felt in this case that too many of the clubs either were misrepresented or their votes were not counted. There were 39 organizations present, and only 36 votes were counted."

SCRO will once again come up before the Executive Council today at noon. The body will either accept or reject the committee report.

"Aside from the technicality last week that prevented the Council from accepting the report, this was the first time in its history that an IOC vote was not accepted by the Council," according to William Lewis, dean of student activities.

Students Named For Dean's List

Stewart Marsh, dean of instruction, extends congratulations on behalf of the staff and faculty to those students who qualified for the Dean's List for the fall 1964 semester.

Part time students who maintained a grade average of 3.5 or more with an accumulation of 30 units or more qualified for the honor. Full time students with a 3.5 average for 12 units last fall were also eligible.

Band Concert To Perform At 11 Today

Valley College's symphonic band will be in the limelight today at the band concert in the Choral Room at 11 a.m.

Among the selections presented will be "Fete" by Ralph Herman. This is a show piece, beginning fast, showing tone colors in the middle and ending with a fanfare.

Secondly, the band will present the famous overture by Beethoven, "Prometheus."

As the program continues, the band also will play a selection by the contemporary composer, McBeth. "Chant and Jubilo" has a unique beginning with an ancient sounding effect.

The concert will be concluded with "Viva Mexico" in four movements. The first movement is a processional, describing a religious holiday in music. The second movement is the "Bells of San Miguel," which will represent the bells ringing in a church during the holiday.

Third, "Puebla-de-Los Angeles" will be presented characterizing a small Mexican village. Finally, the fourth movement, "Fiesta of the Charros" will be the fanfare ending.

"The symphonic band is the best we have ever had—it is well balanced and sounds just great," said Richard Carlson, instructor of music and band leader.

Carlson wants every one that can to attend the concert. For those who are unable to attend or who cannot get in, there will be another band in May. This one will be held in the Little Theater and will accommodate more people.

Richard Stern Selected as March Scholar of the Month

Richard Stern, 18 year old sophomore chemistry major at Valley has been chosen as Scholar of the Month for March by the Scholar of the Month Committee.

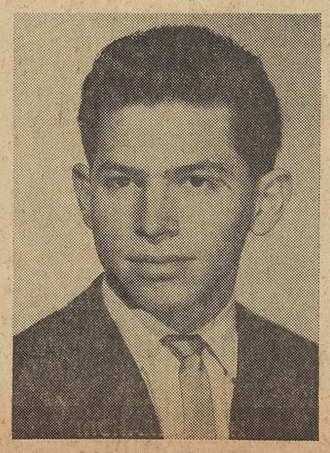
The non-financial award is presented each month to a Valley student on the basis of active participation in student activities, a grade point average of 3.0 or higher and an unusual current achievement.

Stern, who has been at Valley three semesters, attended John H. Francis Polytechnic High School, where he received an award of outstanding service to the financial office of the school, where he worked for two years.

A home laboratory is Stern's main hobby, where he has worked on special projects concerning the separation of ions and qualitative analysis for Julius Glater, associate professor of chemistry.

An active member of TAE-Les Savants, the Hillel Council and an IOC representative, Stern is also credited with founding the Physical Science Club at Valley and is currently the vice president of that organization.

Stern currently has a 3.58 grade average and has received the A.S.O. scholarship. He has been on the Dean's List at Valley for two of his three semesters.



RICHARD STERN

Last Assisting Judge Appointed for Court

The final appointment to Valley Supreme Court, William Jorgensen, was chosen by A.S. President Larry Bohanan last Thursday at the Executive Council's bi-weekly meeting.

A first semester pre-law major and a member of the French Club and the choir, Jorgensen is also interested in communication, particularly in radio broadcasting. Prior to his admission to Valley, he was an engineering aid for a major aerospace firm and a purchasing agent for another local company.

Interest

"I am interested in all organizations on campus, especially the student court," Jorgensen said. He feels his new position will give him the opportunity to exercise leadership and provide him with a "good deal of legal experience."

Jorgensen said the most important parts of his job will be to "Allow the students to be heard, to interpret existing laws and to present any changes that are necessary in the constitution." He also stated that the court will not police the students but will judge and render recommendations for further actions to be taken by the administration.

Well Qualified

Bohanan said, "I feel all of the candidates were well qualified. In my opinion, Jorgensen had more time to devote to the post than the others. Jorgensen has had leadership experience in his two jobs before he returned to school. He is also a new student working with a new constitution. I feel he would be one of the most unbiased members because of this."

Associate Justice Jorgensen said "Because of my new status as a student I feel a challenge and an obligation to the student of Valley."

Debate League Holds Contest

Valley hosts approximately 500 high school students tomorrow and Saturday in a speech tournament sponsored by the Southern California Debate League.

The contestants from schools in the West Los Angeles and Valley are competing for awards in excellence in various fields of speech.

Areas covered include debating, original, impromptu and oratorical interpretations. Also included are dramatic, extemporaneous and humorous interpretations.

Tomorrow beginning at 3:30 p.m., debating will begin on the national high school topic, Resolved: Nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization.

The extemporaneous speaking based on current events from weekly news magazines, and other similar individual events are scheduled for Saturday, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Inter-Marriage Topic of Today's Quadwranglers

"Mixed Marriages? No!" will be the topic presented by the Quadwranglers today at 11 a.m. in the Quad.

Rev. Paul Peterson, minister of the first Baptist Church of Burbank, will take the negative side of this, the second presentation regarding mixed marriages.

Rev. Peterson is the father of "Awake America," a weekly radio program heard Sundays over radio station KIEV and 11 other California networks.

Author of the pamphlet "Awake America," Rev. Peterson has stated that he has dedicated his life to inform others of "the dangers of socialism and communism in America today, as well as the moral decay here and elsewhere in the world. This is the year of crisis."

REMINDER

A campus wide survey on "Cheating in the American College" is being conducted by the Valley Star. On Monday, March 22, during the 10 a.m. class hour, questionnaires on cheating, its presence or its absence, will be distributed to Valley College classes selected at random.

The cooperation of students and faculty alike is asked in filling out the questionnaires and returning them to one of several locations on campus. Those participating in the survey will remain anonymous.

The survey will attempt to discover the extent to which cheating exists at Valley College and the student's reaction to cheating.

Questions will range from "Would you report a fellow student if he was cheating?" to "Do you think cheating is a moral issue?"

Results of the survey will be published by the Star in a series of articles beginning in April.

Civil Rights—Unalienable Rights

It was on July 2, 1776, that Thomas Jefferson wrote, "We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

Yet in March of 1965, 189 years later, the wisdom of these words is not fully understood.

"All men are created equal." It is a simple statement of fact which is not subject to interpretation. "All men are created equal." It does not say "some men are created equal" nor does it say that "white men are created equal." It says "all men," even Southern governors.

"They are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights." Unalienable! They cannot be denied nor taken away. Yet in portions of this country they are being both denied and taken away.

"Among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." As Americans, to these criteria, we have failed on two out of three counts. For some in the South there is life but not liberty. And without liberty there can be no effective pursuit of happiness.

Recently the spotlight of discrimination has focused on Selma, Alabama. Here the drive for Negro voter registration has reached its peak. And here the civil rights movement has chosen to make its stand, using voter registration as an illustration of the oppressions placed on the Southern Negro.

These oppressions are a scar across the American complexion. And the removal of this scar is the job of every American, even Southern governors.

For we are Americans first, not New Yorkers or Alabamans or Californians. And as such we must make the ideals of Thomas Jefferson the realities of today.

We must see that there are no second class citizens. For liberty is not a matter of degree. And until all Americans have total liberty, none have true freedom.

Monday, President Johnson outlined his plans toward the civil rights crisis to a joint session of Congress. Yesterday the President sent to Congress the Voting Rights Bill. It will provide for United States government officials to carry on voter registration when local and state officials refuse to cooperate.

Additionally the bill will ensure that properly registered individuals will not be prohibited from voting. The passage of this Voting Rights Bill will surely be a step in the right direction.

But the ultimate success of the civil rights movement depends directly on the efforts made by individual Americans, including Southern governors. For even though prejudice may never vanish, discrimination must.

—BILL SMITH

The Right and the Wrong of It All

Time has come for positive action on the part of responsible Valley College students to answer the clear call that's being sounded throughout the land. The civil rights issue deserves the support of every thinking citizen.

For too long have the majority of civil rights advocates on campus stood back and allowed a "vocal few," who are as interested in bringing attention to themselves as their cause, carry the ball for everyone. The issue is too important for anyone to remain reticent. The type of support really needed cannot be delivered by emotionally embroiled individuals or groups.

What is needed is rational and logical opposition to the irrational and illogical treatment of our fellow citizens in the South. Demonstrations, picketing and parades have brought results, both good and bad, to the cause of freedom. But now is the time to make feelings known through a more effective and direct method. President Johnson said that the encouragement he has received from citizens all over the country gives him the necessary strength to take action to insure equal opportunities for all Americans. All officials in public office should know the opinions of the people they represent.

Part of the success of a representative form of government lies in the representatives knowing the thoughts and wishes of the represented. In this connection, every student who thinks it is inherently wrong to deny the rights of any citizen to exercise his freedom to vote should write a letter to his local Congressman urging him to vote a resounding "YES" when the Voting Rights Bill goes to the House. The Congressmen for this area are James Corman and Edward Reinecke. A letter to the Senate too would be in order. Our Senators are George Murphy and Thomas Kuchel.

Last week a man of God, Rev. James J. Reeb, died fighting against laws he felt were morally wrong. The Star proposes that the Executive Council of the Associated Students adopt a resolution of condolence to the widow and four children of the Rev. Reeb. The Unitarian minister, who was murdered in Selma, Alabama, did not die in vain.

The students of Valley should be given the opportunity to sign the resolution so that his family will be assured that their loss is shared by all believers in the equality of men.

Fighting for human rights or any other valid cause can be a lonely job. These people deserve and require written, not token, support.

True Concern—Nothing Less

By MIKKI ROHALY
Editor

Valley College is concerned. Every American citizen is concerned with the events of the last two weeks in Selma, Alabama. When I say Valley College, I don't mean just the sign-carrying minority that "sat-in" in the Quad last Thursday. But I do mean every responsible student on campus.

Mikki Rohaly

No American can ignore the plight of the Negro in the South. No American can ignore the fact that the basic right to vote that is being denied him is the foundation of our great country. Certainly, denying him this freedom is chipping away the cornerstone of the nation.

Civil rights is truly a noble cause and any person who would use it as a means for publicity is doing as much harm as the Southern whites who have been suppressing the Negroes for so many years.

I WOULD VENTURE TO SAY that the majority of persons involved in civil rights activities are truly dedicated, yet a definite minority seem to be striving only for publicity.

A recent example and one close to the Valley campus is the "sit-in" in the Quad last Thursday.

One of the pro-tempore officers of the still "illegal" civil rights club phoned the news media throughout the Los Angeles area supposedly to alert them of a demonstration that was timed to coincide with the Quad-wrangler presentation. As if the news media was not enough, an unidentified woman phoned the Van Nuys Division of the L.A. Police Department and warned them of the "planned demonstration" — asking for police surveillance of the campus.

THIS TYPE OF ACTION should be questioned. Surely to a dedicated group publicity would be secondary to a successful campaign. Naturally if a demonstrating group accomplishes its purpose, publicity will follow. There is no need whatsoever to forewarn the newspapers.

The responsible students on campus luckily were amused at these fringe elements that presented themselves in the Quad last week. Often disgust replaces the amusement and many of the people who wanted to rally for the cause of civil rights hesitate to do so for fear of being associated with a minority of irresponsible individuals.

NOT ALL ARE IRRESPONSIBLE. Not all are publicity seekers. And not all are being controlled by Communists, another theory which has arisen in the last few weeks.

The editorial on this page suggests a number of effective ways to "help" bring about civil rights for all. Surely a letter to the proper authorities would be more effective than sitting in the Valley College Quad with an illegal sign—protesting.

Recent Selma Events Show National Temperance Handling Inhumanity

By DICK SHUMSKY
Former Star Editor

"Out of darkness comes light."

After the recent barbaric actions taken by officials of the sovereign state of Alabama, many Americans feel a deep sense of shame in the face of worldwide condemnation.

Dick Shumsky

However, the days following the brutal action in Selma should be a time of deep national pride. The American system of justice has been shown to be one of compassion and flexibility in dealing with inhumanity.

When a group of private citizens can buck law enforcement officials and written laws, however unjust they may be, and emerge victorious, this is a sign of a truly great country.

FEW COUNTRIES would allow the practice of civil disobedience to exist, fearing widespread upheaval by people of unrest. But, in America, civil disobedience is a respected and protected way of bucking injustice as exhibited in Alabama.

Civil disobedience as preached and practiced by Dr. Martin Luther King is a truly majestic and effective way of bringing a just case to the attention of all Americans.

SOME CLAIM THAT KING is undermining authority in flaunting laws. But, to the contrary, in openly and flagrantly breaking unjust laws, King is showing his faith in America's principles. Instead of showing contempt for justice by engaging in undercover tactics, King is openly presenting his case to the conscience of America.

The fact of his success in Alabama serves as living proof to the correctness of his cause and his method. Every American who cares, has heard, seen and acted, in accordance with the dictates of his morality.

IF CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE serves as a highly effective tool for Rev. King, it can have the opposite effect when used just for the sake of being extreme. Today, where disobedience of laws is purposeful in Selma, Alabama, it is totally inappropriate in Los Angeles, California.

The method was used at Berkeley during the Free Speech uprising, but the results are turning out to be quite different. It's apparent that Americans will only accept law breaking when it is clearly the last possible means of achieving a desired goal.

THE VERDICT ON DR. KING is most obvious. He has used civil disobedience when no other action would have sufficed. Those who try to emulate him must be morally above reproach. Americans may be slow to act, but when they do, truth will triumph.

Valley Students Discuss Star's Creation SCRAM

Dear Editor:

There is little doubt, I'm sure, that your "Valley Forge" column headed — Anti-Anti-Anti/Next To Come — (11 March) is one of the finest examples of the journalist's art to have appeared in the pages of the Valley Star this semester! It of course—alas! none of us are perfect—does have a few flaws.

It is the editor's privilege to be subtle. In this manner no feelings are apt to be hurt, and no one knows at whom the column is aimed. On the first count the column was a sure success, there were few hurt feelings. On the second count, though, success is questionable. It seems that only about half of the student body was not aware that the embryonic L.A.V.C. Student Civil Rights Organization was the target of your valiant attempt at obscurantism.

Your choice of tactics was unfortunate. Reductio Ad Absurdim is generally the most effective method of satire, but in this case the very scale on which the tactic was employed pointed out the ridiculousness of the arguments. It seems that through long, complicated series of repeated words and other hollow journalistic devices the column itself was reduced to absurdity.

A possible result of this column, knowing the weight that the Valley Star carries with members of our student government, may have been the refusal of the council to recognize the SCRO. On the other hand the column may not have influenced anyone . . .

At any rate, it is truly encouraging to see that strong, crusading, independent journalism is not dead! Congratulations!

Sincerely,
MARK PANITCH

Dear Editor:

Your column the Valley Forge in last week's Valley Star was excellent. You said in that column what should have been said a long time ago. After talking with a number of students on this campus, I am sure that at least 100 students would sign up for SCRAM if it were really a club.

Your repetition of words was a clever device, and clearly illustrated the confusion that exists in most of these groups. Nobody really knows if the organizations are violent or non-violent. As you so aptly put it, they are violent-non-violent organizations.

I would like to end by saying that I can see some objections to your column, but they would naturally be from the "nuts" in these organizations. If anyone does complain, please don't hesitate to use the old cliche', "If the shoe fits, wear it."

Sincerely,
GERALD MEYERSON

Stop the World . . .

Broadway Show Valley College Hit

By MIKKI ROHALY

"Stop the World"—and that's exactly what Wade Early did, with his stirring portrayal of the character Littlechap in the new musical "Stop the World—I Want To Get Off," opening tonight in the Valley College Little Theater.

Here is entertainment certain to delight the discriminating theatergoer as he hilariously laughs at the antics and frustrations of Littlechap. Underlying his amusement, true realization of poetic reality may add to his enjoyment.

Littlechap catches the audience up early in the first scene and carries it along to the dramatic climax where he faces his decision-making moment.

Early's tremendous talent for holding the audience in the palm of his hand throughout the performance attested to his ability as an actor. He lived his part. Littlechap, who represented the frustrations of all men of all races, wasn't merely a painted character on a stage with colored lights and sound effects. He was a real person. Every member of the audience knew that Early was no longer just an actor, but he was Littlechap—living and breathing on the stage.

He felt the frustrations of Littlechap and transferred this to his audience in such a way that every person experienced his joys and sorrows.

The good timing of the show helped each individual character complement the other's performance.

Early's co-star throughout the production was Tanii Oman as Evie. Miss Oman can be credited with a top-notch performance. Her versatility with dialects was an asset to an extremely difficult part of parts.

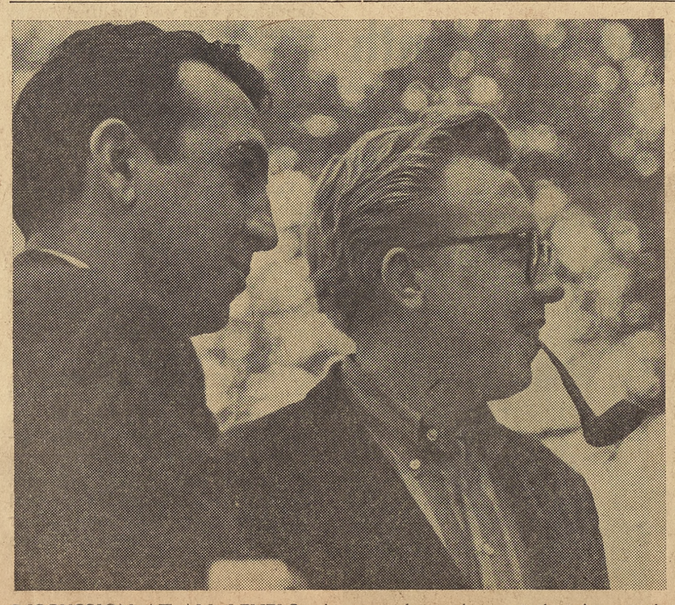
The vibrant chorus of seven girls held the fast moving drama at a smooth pace from beginning to end. The chorus functioned as a unit, living each moment with Littlechap. They were alert throughout the show never failing to back up the main characters.

The daughters and sons portrayed by Jackie Kornblatt, Barbara Smith, Peter Dietrich and John Nimitz represented the childhood years beginning with birth. The handling of the period of infancy was excellent.

Action never lagged once in the musical. Everything flowed so perfectly that never once did anyone in the audience want to say "Stop the Play—I Want to Go Home." Many would have stayed two hours longer.

The unusual stage setting designed by Dean Cushman, as well as the choreography and lighting greatly contributed to making this production one of the finest evenings of entertainment Valley College's Theater Arts Department has ever presented.

"Stop the World" was surely a great production—and indeed most professional.



DISCUSSION AT ALL LEVELS—It was a busy day in the Quad last Thursday with the talk by history instructors Farrel Broslawsky (left) and Larry Jorgenson (center) on Racial and Religious Intermarriage. Side activities included a placard carrying civil rights vigil and student to student discussion of the civil rights cause in which Dennis Schwarz (right) loudly participated. All this gave evidence of Valley College's deep involvement with the current problems of the nation. —Valley Star Photos

Sampling Some Untasted Fruit In a Look at Future Programming

By KEN MORAN
Feature Editor

Audience Studies Inc. is a unique business which gives away something intangible in return for something equally intangible.

Entertainment is the product given away and the payment collected is an opinion.

Introduction to this unusual phase of show business comes when a stranger approaches on a street corner and offers a free ticket to a premiere.

Suspicious of anything labeled "free," the average person will hesitate to accept the offer. Once his fears are allayed and the invitation is accepted, he can look forward to an evening of entertainment. Whether it is good or bad will depend upon the individual's viewpoint.

Upon entering the theater everyone receives a pencil and a plastic folder upon which to write. After each program or commercial, mimeographed forms are distributed containing questions to be answered regarding the show that has just been presented.

Ken Moran

TYPICAL QUESTIONS are as follows: Is it entertaining? Would you watch it instead of—(another popular program named)? What do you think of the character named—? After each commercial the people are asked to tell everything that they remember about the product as well as their reaction to the presentation.

PROGRAMS ARE VARIED and changed often. Shown recently were "My Island Family" starring Pat Boone and "This Is a Hospital?" starring Shecky Greene and Dorothy Loudon—both situation-comedy type television programs. Also seen were two cartoons and several commercials.

At the conclusion of the evening they are again asked to list the different products in the commercials and tell what they can remember about each.

IN THE CENTER SECTION of the audience the people manipulate a dial which is fastened to their seats. Turning the pointer on the dial to the far right indicates approval and to the far left disapproval. The results are recorded by a computer which produces a chart telling the audience reaction to each segment of each show or commercial.

In addition, one segment of the audience (all women) is taken into a conference room toward the end of the evening and given a group interview on what they have seen and their feelings on the products in the commercials.

IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING the final program a drawing is held, and the lucky members of the audience are given a year's supply of some of the household products that they have just seen in the commercials.

Mrs. Eve Pohlo, project director at the Director's Guild Theater, which holds these audience sampling previews, says that the opinions they receive are broken down into cross-sections as to age, sex and economic groups.

SHE RECEIVED her B.A. degree from Marietta College in Ohio and has been at the theater on Sunset Blvd. for four years.

"This type of sampling is quite common, both in this country and Europe," she said.

For an interesting evening, a free show, and a chance to be a "first-nighter," don't hesitate to accept an invitation to a premiere from a stranger on a street corner. All it will cost is an opinion!

LET ME EXPLAIN!—Are you finding it hard to get along with your girl? If you are, she is possibly taking a course in self defense being offered at Valley this semester. Above Shirley Shinneman, physical education major, demonstrates some of the form she will be well versed in by the end of her classes.

Men Students Better Beware; Coeds To Learn Self Defense

By MIKKI ROHALY
Editor

Coeds of Valley College—would you like to be able to twist your boyfriend around your little finger? This old saying can literally be put into practice with a little effort on the part of any interested young lady on this campus, with a few lessons.

This offer seems to be an ad for a course in "friendly persuasion" but rather it is actually a class in jujitsu.

The only twisting that will take place in this class will be of a purely physicial nature and will teach all female participants the art of self defense.

Valley has recently initiated this new program in the evening division. Although the class hour is Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., any registered coed at this college is eligible. According to Jack Haywood, instructor, who is a graduate from a Judo University in Japan, "all women who want to sign up are welcome. They can always begin any time during the semester."

"This class is not given for credit, but is a service offered to all women who want to be able to defend themselves in the event of an attack," he said.

"I am not restricting this class to students, only," he said, "even teachers are encouraged to attend."

Haywood emphasized that the class trains the girls to be alert. They use men trained in this art as dummys for demonstrations.

At the end of the semester, the outstanding students receive green or brown belts depending on their ability. The green belt signifys a student who has successfully completed the course and is able to defend herself. The brown belt indicates a person who has outstanding ability and is constantly alert.

"The recipients of either belt means an alert mind and a person that doesn't 'panic' in a crisis."

So any girl who wants to be able to twist someone around her finger may make an appearance at the weekly jujitsu class in the wrestling room of the Men's Gym.

Orators Win Big

Preparation and work for Valley College students involved in the speech tournament at Whittier College last Saturday, March 13, proved worthwhile for four award-winning students.

H. Dennis Beaver, president of the French Club, won two superior awards in the categories of impromptu and original oratory. The impromptu speech was a seven minute speech on the topic of disarmament.

His first attempt in competition at a speech tournament, Roger Karraker, a journalism major, received a superior award in impromptu on the topic of disarmament.

An award of excellence was earned by the president of the West Valley Young Democrats and member of the JFK Young Democrats at Valley College, Arlene Canter. In the area of extemporaneous speaking, Miss Canter was give 45 minutes preparation to explore the area of civil rights.

In the division of oral interpretation, Douglas Squires received an award of excellence.

"Considering the inexperience of the speech team," stated Rochelle Rosenthal, captain of the debate team and coordinator of campus services, "the results of the tournament were superior."

Team debaters, consisting of two partners, disputed the topic, "Resolved: That, the federal government should establish a national program of public works for the unemployed." Disqualification of debating teams in each round narrowed competitors down to a few. Debating teams participating in the final rounds were Rochelle Rosenthal and Colleen Ferguson; Greg Cullen and Gary Lee; H. Dennis Beaver and Bill Welch; Roger Bacon and Bill Penny; and John Castro and Diane Greene.

The final outcome of the winning debate team has not been announced. The results will be mailed in.

Miss Rosenthal said that "results of the tournament will be the basis for determining who will represent Valley College at the Palamar Individual Events Championship Tournament on March 26 and 27. Considering the excellent results of the prior tournament, these students should be more than capable to compete at the Palamar tournament."

DID YOU SAY A FULL MOON?—Pictured above are Donald Reed, history instructor and librarian at Valley with Orreil Smith, noted folk singer, discussing one of the better known horror novels. Founder of the Count Dracula Society, Reed is currently making plans for this year's banquet at Rudi's Italian Inn starring Miss Smith.

Librarian Founder Of Dracula Society

By JEFF HANSEN
Staff Writer

What would you do on a cold, stormy night if you heard a knock on the door and found a monster, thirsting for your blood? Most people might be scared to death, yet Donald Reed, founder of the Count Dracula Society, would probably find the situation quite interesting.

Reed, who is a graduate of USC with an M.A. in library science, came to Valley as a librarian in September 1964. In his 3,000 volume home library are many volumes by such famous horror story writers as Edgar Allan Poe and Mrs. Ann Radcliffe. From reading their works he went into a study of "Gothic" literature.

The society derives its name from the well-known novel "Dracula" that was written by Bram Stoker in the 19th century. When a few of Reed's friends reflected a serious interest in the study of Gothic literature, they decided to organize a society. Soon the club gathered national interest and more than 300 members were organized into 27 national chapters.

The Hollywood Chapter has about half of the total membership. Members of the society range from high school students to college graduates.

Each year the society holds a banquet at which the Mrs. Ann Radcliffe Awards are given for excellence in various fields. This year the winners include Ray Bradbury for literature; Vincent Price for motion pictures; and Alfred Hitchcock for television. Past winners have included Peter Lorree and Boris Karloff.

Rudi's Italian Inn will be the scene of this year's banquet March 21. At the banquet Orreil Smith will sing "ghoulish folk songs." One of these, "Sweeny Todd the Barber," will tell the story of a barber who has a sharp razor but a dull sense of humor.

Horror stories aren't new. During the 18th century, Mrs. Ann Radcliffe was acclaimed the "queen of terror" when her novel, "The Mysteries of Udolpho," was one of the best sold thrillers in the world. Reed stated that a careful distinction must be made between terror and horror stories. "Terror has the smell of death while horror would be the actual stumbling over a corpse."

Noted horror film producer and a member of the society, Herman Cohen has acclaimed, "Horror films are good therapy . . . they show the triumph of good over evil."

Kirk has said, "Despite the criticism of horror films the teenagers love them still."

Math Test Won by Student

A John Burroughs High School student taking an advanced course in mathematics at Valley College topped his college competition by winning the annual math award contest.

Students who were eligible to participate in the contest were all day and evening division students enrolled in Math 7 analysis. The award is given to previous semester students based on their performance in the class and examination.

The test is made up of 12 advanced math problems which are graded by at least 10 math instructors. The individual receiving the highest score is presented with a number of mathematics text books.

This year's winner, Terris Reedy, is a senior at John Burroughs High School in Burbank. His major interests are mathematics and physics. He plans to attend either Cal-Tech or the University of California at San Diego, majoring in mathematics. After graduation, he intends to be a math research scientist.

Last summer Reedy attended the science program at Thatcher School in Ojai, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, in astronomy. The students plotted the orbit of an asteroid.

Reedy said, "I was very surprised that I won this award. I never thought that I would even place in the college competition. This is quite an honor for me and my high school. The six math textbooks that I received for my prize will be very useful in my future studies."

Lion Nine Hosts Corsairs

By DAN EHRLICH
Assistant Sports Editor

Valley's celler dwelling baseball team will host Santa Monica City College tomorrow and El Camino Tuesday in an attempt to break a four-game losing streak.

The Monarchs dropped their fourth conference game last Friday, losing to the Huskies of East Los Angeles City College, 5-2.

This will be Valley's second meeting with Santa Monica. The first game took place during the Pierce Tournament, when the Corsairs handed the Lions their only defeat of the tourney.

"Santa Monica, from the results of the Pierce Tournament, showed that they are a strong hitting ball club while El Camino will pin its hopes on pitching strength," said baseball coach Dan Means.

Lack of Hitting

"The biggest thing that hurt us last week with ELA was the lack of hitting with men on base," said Means.

The games most spectacular play was made by Monarch centerfielder Terry Girard during the fifth inning. On a towering fly ball he made a diving catch in shallow right field.

Tom Convey, who pitched five innings, was the first of three pitchers used by Valley. Convey, the squad's best fastball artist, pitched a seven hitter until he weakened. He was relieved in the sixth by Ed Begley, who last 1⅓ innings, and was replaced by Nick Mangel.

Seven Hits

With a total of seven hits, the Monarchs scored their first run in the first inning on a single by outfielder Marty Powell, who drove in first baseman Rich Amezola. The team's other run came in the seventh on a triple by catcher Pat Leeper, driving in right fielder Jack Jansen. Leeper was unable to score along with a man on second as the rest of the side was retired.

East L.A. had a total of eight hits, two of which were homeruns to centerfield, one off of Begley and one off of Mangel.

Line scores:

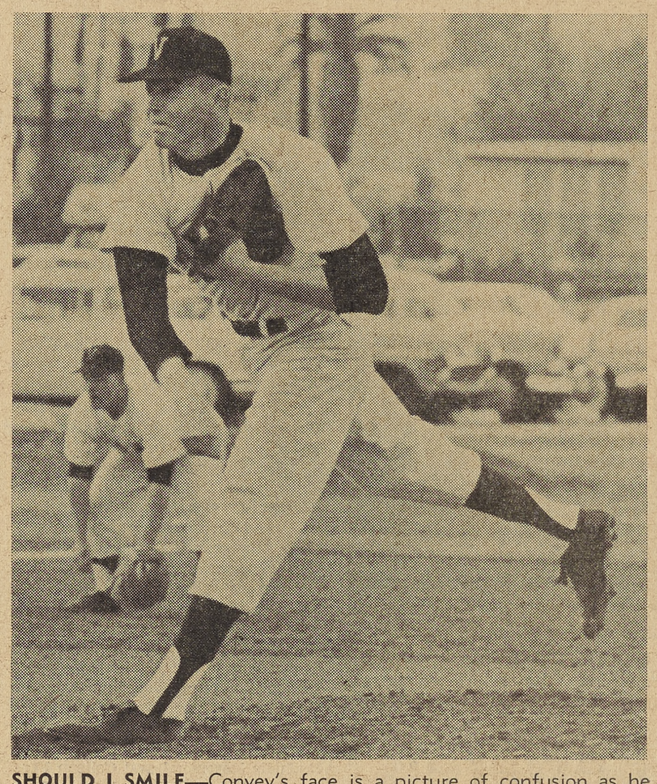
Valley	100 000 100	2	7	4
ELAC	000 021 200	5	8	1

Convey, Begley (6th), Mangel (7th), and Leeper.



SHOULD I SMILE—Convey's face is a picture of confusion as he watches the ball hoping that the results of the pitch will be favorable to the Lions. The Monarchs starting hurler seems not quite sure yet of his delivery.

Net Team Host Cubs

In preparation for its meet Wednesday with conference champion El Camino, Valley's tennis team will host the Los Angeles City College squad Monday.

Team coach Al Hunt stated that he isn't worried at all about the LACC contest. "El Camino will be our all important game," he said. At present, the Warriors have an unbeaten season record and are 4-0 in conference action. Last year they also went undefeated, and won the Southern California championship and placed second in the state finals.

With the Monarchs romp Friday over Long Beach City College, 7½-1½, they also have a 4-0 Metro record, and are 9-2 for the season.

"We will really have to be up for this meet to win," said Hunt. He went on to say that El Camino's advantage over Valley lies with its depth and experience.

In the Long Beach contest Friday, Valley swept all but one match in singles and took two out of the three doubles matches played. Due to rain, the third doubles were called, each team receiving a half point.

Winning first singles was Bob Hart, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2; Bill Rombeau took his game, 6-1, 6-0; taking third singles was Paul Navratil, 6-4, 6-1. His brother Ivo lost his game, 5-7, 7-5, 8-6. Al Bernstein won fifth singles, 6-2, 6-1, and Ken Absher won his 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The team of Rambeau and Paul Navratil won the first doubles competition, 6-4, 7-5. Hart, Ivo and Navratil competed in the game that was rained out, scoring one half point.

Fencers Take Second Place At Intercollegiate Tourney

By ED GOLDENBERG
Sports Editor

Capturing eight silver medals during the Western Intercollegiate Championship Fencing Tournament held at San Francisco State last Friday and Saturday, Valley College's fencing team finished second to the Air Force Academy in the meet.

"The Air Force is rated number two in the NCAA, and we only lost to them by one hit in the meet so I am quite enthused by our performance," said fencing coach John Tatum.

Some of the schools that participated in the meet were the Air Force Academy, San Francisco City College, Humbolt State, Long Beach State, San Fernando Valley State, Stanford, University of California at Berkeley, UCLA, Napa State, Cal Poly and Valley College.

"Find any other conference sport that would dare to run with the company we keep in fencing, and not only hope for good results, but get them," said Tatum.

Fourth in Foil

In the foil competition, Valley finished fourth as the University of California won the event. UCLA wound up second in the foil contest while the Air Force Academy finished third.

Competing for the Lions in the foil competition was Jack Beyer, Bert Klugkist and Terry Olsen.

In the epee event, the Lions captured four silver medals while finishing second to the powerful Air Force Academy contingent. Silver medal winners included Beyer, Olsen and Dick Ede plus the team also received a silver medal for its second place finish.

No Gold

"We missed the gold medals by one hit in our final bout with the Air Force," said Tatum.

Newcomer Wayne Ruwet led the Monarchs to a second place finish in the sabre event which the Air Force won.

"Ruwet surprised by winning 50 per cent of his bouts. It was his performance that gave us a second place in sabre, a real come through effort in the tough spots with UCLA and California at Berkely," explained Tatum.

The next effort by the men's fencing team will be to qualify the epee team for the National Open Championships to be held in Los Angeles this summer.

April 10, the women's fencing squad, led by Yolanda Veloz, will compete in the Western Intercollegiate Tournament to be held at the Southern California Fencing Center in Los Angeles.

Lion Spikers Lose to LB; Sets Records

By JIM DAVIS

School records by Gary Barr in the shot put and Willie Hearnton in the triple jump were two bright spots in a losing effort, when the Long Beach Trackmen whipped Valley, 87-49, last Friday.

It was the Viking's second and third place strength that proved the difference, as the Monarchs took seven of 16 firsts.

Barr broke one of the oldest records in the books when he won the shot event with a put of 53 feet, 9½ inches to break Ray Martins 1954 record of 53 feet, 8½ inches.

New Record

Reporting to the track team only last week, Hearnton set a new school mark of 47 feet, 9¾ inches on his first jump of the meet. The all-conference basketball player, who is just learning this event, broke Donnell Ticer's month-old mark of 46 feet, 6½ inches.

Ticer, who placed second to Hearnton in the triple jump, wound up as the high individual scorer in the meet with 13 points. He won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 4 inches. On the last jump of the day he went from third to first in the long jump with a mark of 23 feet, 5½ inches.

More Firsts

Other Lions picking up first places were Terrel Ray, Roger Wolff and Rick Beelby. Ray won the 100 in 9.7, which was the best time in the Southland that day. Wolff captured the 440 in the time of 50.5 and was a close second in the 220. Beelby recorded his best of the year in winning the 330 hurdles with a time of 39.7.

Coach Ker said that he was pleased with his team's marks and with the early season form of Hearnton.

Valley has a bye this week and will resume conference action next week against Cerritos.

Swimmers Host Conference Foe

After trouncing El Camino 77-14 at home last Friday, Valley's finmen will play host to Long Beach City College tomorrow afternoon.

The Monarchs took eight of nine events, including both relays—the 440 yard medley and the 400 yard freestyle—timed in 4:08.6 and 3:34.9.

"We juggled our swimmers around to give some of the other boys a chance to show," said coach Mike Wiley.

"The meet was a real workout, and we won't make any real effort until we travel to Santa Monica next Friday."

"Long Beach doesn't have much anyway, they lost out for a chance at a top spot in conference when their four top swimmers were declared ineligible, so we'll rest up for this meet," concluded Wiley.

Mike Sheoard captured two events, winning the 50 yard freestyle in 23.9 and the 100 yard freestyle in 53.3.

"The best swim of the day," according to coach Wiley was Steve Danielsen winning the 200 yard butterfly in 2:08.9.

Also helping the Monarchs to their first conference win of the year in as many starts were Jeff Calvert swimming a 2:01.9 in the 200 yard freestyle and Kim Roush winning the individual medley in 2:16.4, while Alan Kara captured the diving events.

The last two events were won by Chris Kaufman and Whit Rogers. Kaufman captured the 200 yard backstroke in 2:22.2, while Rogers took the 500 yard freestyle in 5:48.7.

Gymnasts Battle ELA After Lopsided Win

After scoring a lopsided 124-36 triumph against El Camino, Valley's gymnastic team will travel to East Los Angeles today.

According to head coach Ray Follosco, the Huskies should provide the Lions with their toughest conference test of the entire season.

"Although the Huskies didn't score well in the conference previews, they do have some outstanding gymnasts, and they are the only school in the Metro conference with any kind of a chance of upsetting us," said Follosco.

Lion Sweep

In their meet with the Warriors, the Monarchs swept seven of the 10 events while finishing first in every event.

Leading the onslaught for the Lions was Darrel DePue, who captured four firsts, including the all around event.

DePue scored firsts in tumbling, free exercise and on the horizontal bar, while outdistancing teammates Chris Teeter and Bob Varni in the all around competition.

Besides his second place finish in the all around event, Teeter captured a first on the long horse with 18.8 points. Scoring a first on the rope climb was John Darakjy with a wining time of 3.6 seconds.

Winning Events

Mel Morris dominated the side horse competition while Varni scored a first on the parallel bars.

Rounding out Valley's first place finishes were Gerald Clodfelter winning the trampoline event and Sam Rozay who won his specialty on the rings.

The horizontal bar, trampoline and tumbling competition marked the only events that the Lions didn't sweep. On the horizontal bar, Valley finished first, second and fourth, while capturing first, second and fourth in the trampoline competition. The Monarchs wound up with a first, third and fourth in the tumbling.

Golfers Face ECC Monday

Valley's Golf team faces their roughest match of the year next Monday when they travel to Palos Verdes Country Club to play El Camino.

The Warriors, like the Monarchs, are unbeaten in the conference this year and should be rated a slight favorite because of their home course advantage.

Tomorrow the Lion golfers take on East LA at Encino and should have no trouble in making their record 5-0 in Metro action.

Last Monday, Valley had no problems in handing Santa Monica a 46-8 loss. It was the Monarchs' 13th straight win without a loss this season.

John Schamp was low man with a two over par 74 for the winners. William Feil and Rich Carr also broke 80 for the Lions on the wet Encino course.

On Friday of last week, Valley crushed LACC for the second time this season, 54-0.

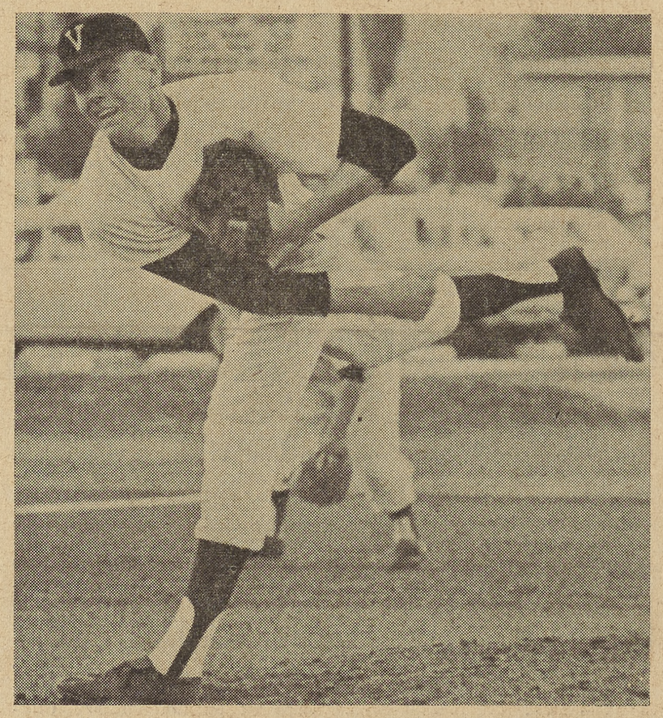
Women Netters Meet Warriors

Valley College's women's tennis team will travel to El Camino next Thursday afternoon after meeting the Pierce women yesterday on the Brahmas' home courts.

Last season Pierce was all-junior college singles and doubles champions, but this year they do not have, "Quite as strong a team as last year's," stated coach Virginia Waldron.

The women's badminton squad will travel to East Los Angeles College next Monday and then will host Pasadena City College the following Wednesday. The Lionettes then move into the Southern California Junior College badminton tournament being held at Cerritos College on Friday, April 2.

Valley will host Los Angeles City College tomorrow afternoon as the Monarchettes hold their first swimming meet of the year at the Kris Kristensen pool.



SMILES A PLENTY—Convey's face expresses his satisfaction of his delivery. Although the Monarchs lost the contest to the Huskies, 5-2, Valley's pitching ace hurled five inning for the locals and gave up just one run. Tomorrow the Lions will play host to Santa Monica.
